DRY INFANTRY IN ATTACK ON MOONSHINERS!

INJURED MAN NEAR DEATH IN SECOND ACCIDENT

Joe Bujan, Hurt In Crash, Collision Victim While En Route To Hospital

Joe Bujan, assistant director with Bud Barsky motion picture productions, was seriously hurt at noon today when he was struck by an automobile while on location at Kenneth road and Highland avenue.

On the way to the Glendale hospital, the injured man narrowly escaped death in a second accident when the machine in which he was being carried to the hospital collided with another car at the intersection of Lexington drive and Central avenue.

Bujan was struck by a car driven by Ralph Wood, 1142 Spazier avenue, as he was crossing Kenneth road to get into an automobile and return to Hollywood. He was rolled over three times, according to police reports, and then run over by the car.

At the Glendale hospital, Dr. M. M. Hensley, who rendered emergency surgical treatment, said that the man's cheek bone was caved in and that his head was badly cut and bruised. In addition he suffered internal injuries, the extent of which were not known. Bujan also was badly cut about the arms and legs. Dr. Hensley said he would live.

As the injured man was being rushed to the hospital in the car of Kenneth McDonald, star in the production being filmed when Bujan was hurt, the second accident occurred when the McDonald car collided with the machine of an unknown driver at Lexington drive and Central avenue.

The car bearing the injured man was traveling at a high rate of speed and turned completely around and hopped the curb when McDonald applied the brakes. Little damage resulted from the crash.

Bujan is employed by a studio at 1442 Beachwood drive, Los Angeles.

Populaton of State May Total 4,021,323

SACRAMENTO, May 19.—California's population will total 4,021,323 at the end of 1925 if the present rate of increase is maintained, L. E. Ross, chief of the state bureau of vital statistics, estimated today.

Ross based his estimate on the increase in population by births and by new settlers.

During 1924 the statistician said there were 30,148 more births than deaths. In the same year the number of new settlers exceeded the number of persons leaving the state by 77,936.

British Take Mild Interest In U. S. Plea

LONDON, May 19.—The British are taking only a mild interest in the request of the United States government to nine European nations that they take steps to settle their war debts.

Newspapers' comment follows the same trend as of the last four years, reiterating that it would have been better if the United States had canceled the war debts.

The "die hard" Morning Post took the position that the United States was aiding German propaganda, claiming its full war debt from France. It said the attitude of the United States strengthened Germany's defense that it was no more to blame for the war than other nations.

The Westminster Gazette, in a dispatch from Washington, said Great Britain was going to get a proportionate reduction of settlement if one is granted France.

STATE'S WITNESS MISSING, REPORT

Robert White Not Present As Second Day's Trial Of Shepherd Opens

BULLETIN

CRIMINAL COURT, CHICAGO, May 19.—A searching examination of the state's witnesses in the trial of William D. Shepherd on a charge of the murder of William Nelson McClintock was launched by the state's attorney's office this afternoon as the result of the disappearance of one of the most important of its witnesses.

When word that all of the principal state witnesses had been ordered brought in for questioning by Robert McMillan, assistant to States Attorney Crowe, penetrated to the courtroom of Judge Thomas J. Lynch, where slow progress was being made in picking a jury to try Shepherd, it created a sensation.

The prosecutor was anxious to learn, it was said, if any efforts had been made to tamper with witnesses or if anyone was able to throw any light upon the absence from home and his usual haunts of the missing star witness.

CRIMINAL COURT BUILDING, CHICAGO, May 19.—Disappearance of an important state's witness was discovered today as William D. Shepherd, calmer and more composed than yesterday, walked into Judge Lynch's courtroom for the second day of his trial for the alleged murder of William Nelson McClintock, his millionaire ward.

The witness is Robert White, formerly connected with Dr. Faiman's National University of Science, the man who, before Faiman's sensational confession, is alleged to have pointed out Shepherd as a visitor at the school.

White, sought on a subpoena, was found to have left his former home, ostensibly for a motor trip, from which he was to have returned yesterday. At the place where he was employed nothing was known concerning his whereabouts.

As Shepherd came into the courtroom, Mrs. Shepherd crossed quickly to his side and kissed him. A bailiff touched her shoulder and, shrugging, she went back to her seat. Elsa Gunn, a friend of the family, also greeted "Darl."

Frank Stiever, venireman tentatively accepted by both sides yesterday, was excused today as

FORMAL NOTES LACKING ON WAR DEBTS

United States Not Prodding Other Nations To Pay; Rendering Help

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The United States government has not assumed the role of prodding creditor.

No formal note has been sent, either as a circular to the powers or as a written demand to individual governments which owe America money.

The department of state, simply acting in pursuance of authority granted at the last meeting of the World war debt funding commission before Congress adjourned, has from time to time indicated to the various governments a desire to have parleys consummated or negotiations begun. In a nut-shell, Secretary Kellogg has merely kept the subject before the various foreign offices.

David Lawrence

The only thing new, really, is the summary given to the press of the efforts made to secure funding arrangements on war debts and also an official confirmation of the conversations between Ambassador Herrick and Finance Minister Caillaux, begun a week ago and fully reported in Paris and Washington dispatches at the time.

Statements Correct

The semi-official statements issued at Paris in the last twenty-four hours that no note had been received there are correct. The truth is, the American government is not using the same means of communication in every case. At Paris, the whole matter has been handled informally in the talks which Ambassador Herrick has had by instruction of the American government, and there is

J. A. Rincon, another farm hand, was his confederate, Adams charged. He said Ullman was killed for his money.

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—William Adams, a ranch hand, was arrested today and lodged in jail here charged with suspicion of murder. C. C. COOPER TO CONTINUE AS MANAGER

New Control Will Not Make Any Changes in the Present Policy

Merger of the Federal Commercial & Savings bank of Glendale with the Hellman Commercial Trust & Savings bank of Los Angeles will be completed June 1, it was announced today by the Hellman bank.

The Federal Commercial & Savings bank's main office at 144 North Brand Boulevard and the branch at 612 East Broadway are included in the merger plans. Both will be operated as branches of the principal office of the Hellman bank at Seventh and Spring streets, Los Angeles.

C. C. Cooper, president of the Glendale banks, will remain as manager of the two Glendale branch banks, with George T. Harness and V. E. White as assistant managers. No changes in personnel at either bank were contemplated at this time, according to Emanuel Cohen, vice-president of the Hellman bank.

"Glendale has been attracting the attention of Los Angeles financial interests for some time," said Mr. Cohen. "This as one section of the community where the Hellman bank had no branches and it was believed advisable to include the two Glendale institutions with the larger bank. The two additional branches give the Hellman bank thirty-four branches with total resources in excess of $80,000,000.

"We believe Glendale will prove a profitable field in which to do business," he added. "It is the policy of the Hellman bank to take part in civic and public affairs planned for the general welfare. All movements toward improvement of Glendale will continue to receive the support of the Hellman bank in the same manner as such support has been extended by the Federal Commercial & Savings bank."

No Change in Policy

"The merger is the consummation of several months' negotiations," said Mr. Cooper. "The combination will give Glendale the service of a metropolitan bank second to none in the southwest. All the facilities of one of the largest banks in the United States will be at the service of our patrons when the merger is completed. The new control will make no changes in the policy of the Glendale banks, nor in the personnel."

MAY RAINFALL IN BAY REGION HEAVY

Downpour Continuing Today Expected To Set Record Over 75 Years

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—A light rain fell here at noon today. Heavier showers were predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—Records of seventy-five years' standing were in a fair way to be broken for May rainfall in the bay region today as the downpour continued intermittently. Up to 8 o'clock this morning 3.22 inches of rain had fallen here this month. Since 1850 the records of the weather bureau showed only one year that had surpassed this record—1883, when 3.52 inches fell. Inasmuch as indications today were that the storm would continue, this record is likely to fall.

The cherry and hay crops are suffering severely, in some counties the cherry crop being an almost total loss. The rain has been confined chiefly to the Santa Clara valley, bay region and northern California coastal counties.

Unsettled Weather

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—Thunderstorms southeast of Los Angeles near Downey today ushered in a period of unsettled weather which was expected to culminate in rains tonight or tomorrow. A rainfall of .02 inches fell at San Diego during the night.

Prohibition Enforcement Depending Upon Public

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The Coolidge administration will make the greatest drive in history to enforce the prohibition laws, and then, if public opinion is found to be opposed to enforcement, will consider proposals for modification of the Volstead act.

This was revealed today at the Couzens committee investigating the internal revenue bureau, when Senator Watson, Republican, of Indiana, an admniistration leader, announced that a determined drive is to be immediately made to enforce prohibition in the United States.

"From the president down," said Watson, "the administration has determined to make a tremendous effort to enforce the prohibition laws. And they are going to use all agencies at their command to enforce it to the limit.

"Then, after the law is enforced to the limit and the people find they do not want prohibition, it is for them to say how it can be modified."

The Couzens investigation revealed evidence of "lack of diligence" in the prosecution of liquor law violations by high prohibition officials, according to members of the committee.

Big Contest Looms Over Pavement for San Fernando Road

A preliminary battle over the improvement of San Fernando road, one of the biggest paving projects ever attempted by Glendale, will be staged in the council chambers on Thursday morning when the type of paving to be laid must be decided by the City Council, it was forecast today, with the calling of a session tonight of a special committee of property owners who will demand solid concrete for the improvement.

The meeting is to be held in the L. H. Wilson realty office, 1034 South San Fernando road, at 7:30 o'clock. Preparation of a petition signed by a large number of property owners along San Fernando road to be submitted to the council Thursday will be completed at the session.

When the San Fernando road project comes before the council, however, a petition asking the improvement of the street with National paving specifications will be acted upon. And other property owners will demand that the council abide by a resolution introduced at the former council by Sam A. Davis permitting open specifications which would provide a concrete base with an asphaltic concrete cushion top.

Although the original petition asked for National specifications, the council can select any type of paving substance it desires. The type upon which bids will be asked, however, must be decided Thursday. All other kinds of paving are then automatically eliminated unless property owners can protest out the council's action.

San Fernando road property owners reported today that representatives of various patent paving companies and of the National Association of Concrete Manufacturers have been active in Glendale during the past few weeks. George Hill, manager of the National Paving Material Co., has also been in the city, it was reported, in the interests of his concern. The size of the project that, it is estimated, may cost more than $500,000, has attracted state-wide attention.

Delays Allowed

Great activity on the part of the proponents of various types of paving materials followed postponement of action by the council at its meeting May 8, when Councilman C. J. Hatz asked a week's delay to permit him to become acquainted with the situation. Councilman W. F. Tower obtained an additional week because he could not be present at last Thursday's session.

Although estimates will not be submitted to the council by City Engineer J. F. Johannsen until Thursday, it is understood that there will be a considerable difference in the costs of the various types of material.

Following the preliminary skirmish forecast by property owners today for Thursday, it is understood that, because of the present difference of opinion as to types of material among those who own property along San Fernando road, protests are almost certain to be filed with the council later.

$60,000 County Money

Wilson said today, however, that the majority of owners now favor solid concrete eight inches in thickness.

It is reported that a six-inch concrete base with a two-inch asphaltic concrete top would not be strongly contested by property owners, although it would be certain to meet with considerable opposition.

The city already holds a check for $60,000 from Los Angeles county as the county's share in the improvement.

Extra! Babe Ruth Hits Hot One Into Stadium Bleachers!

NEW YORK, May 19.—Babe Ruth clouted one into the bleachers at Yankee stadium today. With one strike called on him, the "king of swat" gripped his huge bat and sent the next one soaring into the right field bleachers and then trotted around the bases while the spectators cheered.

It was just a workout and the Babe's opponents were reporters, photographers, ground keepers and a few assorted fans. It was the first time he had swung at the ball since the "flu" struck him out on the southern training trip.

Today Ruth's condition was such that doctors told him he could take an outing.

"Take me up to the stadium, I want to look things over," he said.

A ground-keeper heard the news and met the slugger with an armful of his biggest bats. Ruth took the biggest and, doffing his overcoat, told one of the crowd to pitch to him.

To make it realistic others of the crowd took positions in the field.

After fifteen minutes' play, Ruth's doctors stopped him and he went back to the hospital.

LAUNCH RAIDS ON STILLS IN MOUNTAINS OF SOUTH

Prohibition Forces Attack Liquor Supply Behind Mason-Dixon Line

By R. S. THORNBURGH

For International News Service

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Corking up, one by one, the sources of America's liquor supply, the prohibition infantry has launched an attack in the southern mountains sector, which for generations has been noted for its output of moonshine whiskey. This was made known today at the prohibition unit.

Frequent raids are being conducted by revenue agents and deputy United States marshals through the isolated hill districts south of the Mason and Dixon line.

Early returns from the "front" indicate a large capture of stills and several prisoners.

The infantry attacked suddenly following the coast guard's dramatic naval coup off the eastern coast. A determined effort to wreck shore organizations is under way.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon believes the rum trust will be wrecked by the combined land and sea attacks.

It showed today that:

1—The guard tightening its throttle hold along rum row and conducting raids and reconnaissance patrols on the Atlantic City, Norfolk, Florida, Gulf, Great Lakes and Pacific sectors. These minor operations are preparatory to another big offensive.

2—More than 200 prohibition agents concentrated on Long Island, center of land activities, according to officials.

3—Agents operating in New York, on the borders, in Florida, the lower Mississippi, the northwest and other strategic points, where it is believed tactical moves will further upset the shore organization.

4—Legal distillation of whiskey will not take place in this country for ten years, officials said... Twenty million gallons is stored in government warehouses, subject to withdrawal for medicinal purposes. The country legally uses about 1,300,000 gallons a year. No whiskey can be made until the present supply is exhausted.

Shortage of smuggled liquor has led the prohibition unit to devise a new method of preventing illegal withdrawals and to take precautions against robberies at the warehouses.

Redistillation of wood alcohol for "domestic" consumption is on the increase as the result of the shortage of the real product, according to the treasury.

Oldtimers Sharing Honors With Sophie Tucker, Held For Second Week

McIntyre and Heath, down Orpheum way, yesterday proved beyond a doubt the saying, "The longer you're at it, the better you get." Although held over for a second week, Sophie Tucker stole the show with her snappy arrangements and renditions of the latest "hot mamma" songs. During her act Master Milton Spire is again given the opportunity to play real violin music.

Adler, Weil and Herman are welcomed back to Los Angeles with the big noise. Percy Bronson and Edith Evans please with their "Sober Recital," while Warren and O'Brien try to break their necks and bones in "Bits of Eccentricities." Mlle. Claude Anderson and Leona Yvel spin around on roller skates for the introductory offering, while Topics and News Reel wind up the bill.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Carl Laemmle of Universal Pictures, who has his studio just west of Glendale, is to be complimented on having completed a feature film called "California Straight Ahead." It will call attention to thousands of people throughout this country, as well as the world at large, to the ever-increasing flow of population to the Pacific coast. The value of this publicity can never be figured in dollars and cents.

Recently B. C. Forbes, in a copyrighted dispatch, told of Laemmle's success with a business doing more than thirty millions gross a year. A great share of this money comes to California. And quite a few of his employes at Universal City reside in Glendale and its environs.

So we have the benefactions of genius, doing perhaps more than any other for the advancement of this immediate vicinity, and we seldom think of Carl Laemmle as one of those responsible for our mooted prosperity. But he is. Some day it might be proper for some civic group here to tender him a dinner in recognition of these facts.

Having spoken of a notable to the west of Glendale, let us now turn to the north and we find John Steven McGroarty, author of the Mission Play and La Golondrina (The Swallow), who is completing another epic in a trilogy of California history by writing El Dorado which is to be produced next year.

McGroarty has made famous "those green Verdugo hills" which surround Glendale and Burbank and Montrose and La Crescenta and Tujunga, where that writer lives with his yellow cat. To him great credit is due, too.

Then to the east of our city stands the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, which is one of the notable health institutions in the west. And to the south there lies Forest Lawn Memorial park which is unsurpassed in beauty. Such compliment is paid without depriving other people and other places of honor due them in bringing to this vicinity a reflected glory, for there are many notables and noteworthy attractions here, all worthy of comment.

Industriously speaking, Glendale is similarly surrounded with Moreland Motors and other Burbank plants contributing to our prosperity on one side, with Tropico Potteries, Harrower Laboratory, and Kinner Airplanes, on others, not mentioning a score or more important factors from the standpoint of payrolls already in our midst.

It follows in the matter of parks with Griffith's domain being fast developed by Los Angeles on the west of Glendale; L. C. Brand's estate passing into the hands of this city; Brookside in Pasadena with its nearby Tournament Rose bowl but a few minutes away.

Glendale might well be called the hub of Southern California's metropolitan area without casting any aspersions upon Los Angeles.

Certainly it is bound to become the most populous center in all the southland.

And that's that!

CITY'S GROWTH SHOWN BY PHONES

Report Of Company Reveals Expansion Throughout Entire Valley

Indicative of the growth of Glendale since January 1 of this year as compared with other cities of California is the quarterly report of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co., released by Manager Fred Deal today, showing that the percentage of gain in telephones in Glendale and the San Fernando valley is greater than the gain in any other city of the state outside of Pasadena.

The gain in Glendale amounted to 6.04 per cent from January 1 to April 1, according to the report. In Burbank the gain was 6.44 per cent. At Van Nuys an increase of 5.75 per cent was registered. Lankershim led all other exchanges with a large gain of 51.63 per cent. This, however,

ART CONTESTS OFFERED TO GLENDALE

Eisteddfod Invites City To Stage Southland's Final Events For 1925

An invitation to hold all the final events in the 1925 California Eisteddfod contests in music, art and drama in Glendale was issued today by officials of the central Eisteddfod organization. In tendering the offer to Glendale it was pointed out that district contests held here recently were the most successful of any in the state and that the local organization is far better fitted to handle the final events than is Los Angeles or any other city. It was originally intended to hold most of the final series in Los Angeles, bringing only one or two events to Glendale.

Due to the exceptional work done in Glendale and the interest manifest in the Eisteddfod here, directors of the movement decided to give Glendale all the contests, Alexander Stewart, executive secretary said. It is planned to hold the finals, in which winners from seven California districts will take part, during the week of June 6 to 13.

"The final meeting of contest winners in the seven Eisteddfod districts will bring the best talent in Southern California to Glendale," A. L. Baird, chairman of the Glendale district Eisteddfod, said today. "The contestants will be accompanied by friends from their districts and the type of entertainment offered by these first place winners will attract music and drama lovers from everywhere. Glendale Eisteddfod workers are greatly pleased at this tribute to the district work and the resulting advertising for this city. The outcome of California's first large Eisteddfod is being watched in art circles in many states and Glendale's share will not go unnoticed."

Arrange All Contests

Glendale will arrange all contests with the exception of the choral competition, which will be held in Los Angeles. This includes adult choral clubs, church choirs and high school and col-

CAMPAIGN FOR BETTER MAIL LAUNCHED

Glendale Postoffice Officials To Educate Public To Correct Addresses

A campaign to encourage better mailing of letters and packages will be carried out by officials of the Glendale postoffice through newspaper and theatre publicity during Better Mailing week, June 1 to 7. Arrangements to have Glendale theatres flash better mailing slogans on the screen each night are being made by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson. Patrons of the postoffice will be asked to co-operate with the postal authorities by observing strictly the simple rules and regulations set forth by the postal department.

In connection with better mailing week, figures showing that

$2,000,000 yearly is expended trying to locate addressors and addressees of mail that finally ends in the dead letter office, were given out by Postmaster Jackson. Twenty million letters go to the dead letter office yearly.

Some of the slogans that will be used in connection with letter mailing week publicity are:

A Nixie is a piece of mail
So carelessly addressed and poorly wrapped
That it can neither be delivered nor returned.

* * *

A cross-word puzzle can be solved,
But who can tell the destination

Of a letter without an address?
Even if your mind is a blank,
Put an address on your letters.

* * *

Nixie, the blockhead, the long-eared, the blind,
Pulls Uncle Sam's coat tails from behind.
His daddy is the cheerful gent
Who makes the mailman guess
The place he wants his letters sent
Because he puts on no address.

* * *

Ask Uncle Sam anything in reason.
And he will deliver the goods,
But don't ask him to guess the address
Of your correspondent.

Sending a child to the store
Without telling him what you want

Is no more foolish than mailing a letter
Without a complete address.

* * *

Everyone knows his own address,
If not that of his correspondent.
A return address on each piece of mail
Would put the Dead Letter Office
Out of business.

Film Star Gets Freedom

PARIS, May 19.—Mae Murray, American film star, was free of her marriage bonds today, having been granted a divorce from Robert Leonard, film director. The blond star obtained her divorce from the Seine tribunal, where the grave, bearded judge deeply sympathized with her over the refusal of her husband to live with her.

"I will never live with you again under any condition, anywhere," was a surprising sentence in Leonard's letter to his wife, which aroused the venerable judge's indignation.

"I regard that sentence as a grave injury," said the judge. "It is fully sufficient under the French law for divorce."

Mae described herself as "delighted and sorry at the same time." She declined to say whether her future plans included another marriage.

Mae Murray first won fame as one of the "perfect beauties" of the Ziegfeld Follies. She has been a star in pictures for some years, appearing chiefly in exotic roles of one type, that of the dazzling orchid surrounded by immense wealth.

Councilman And Wife Back From Motor Trip

Councilman and Mrs. W. F. Tower of 328 North Maryland avenue, returned last night from a week's visit in and around San Francisco. They made the trip by motor leaving Glendale Monday, May 11 and going north by the Ridge route. They returned the Coast route.

They went north to attend commencement exercises at Pacific Union college, St. Helena, where their son, Robert B. M. Tower, was a graduate. He completed the full college course, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts. He also finished a two-year pre-medical course. Next year he will return to teach science.

Councilman and Mrs. Tower report that the northern country, especially Napa county, is looking fine. Nearly two inches of rain fell last week in Napa county, bringing the season's fall to between forty and fifty inches.

THOUSANDS OF TOURISTS ON WAY WEST

Transcontinental Railroad Officials Report Heavy Traffic To Coast

Every turn made by the giant driving wheels on the monstrous engines of transcontinental trains whose pilots are pointed westward is bringing to California the vanguard of the season's greatest tourist rush, according to railroad officials. Summer rates from the east are in effect on the Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific lines and reports from eastern centers indicate that thousands of visitors will reach the coast before the middle of June.

More than 4000 tourist passengers and homeseekers are aboard the Santa Fe trains leaving Chicago on or since May 15, according to word received at the Glendale offcie by S. M. Sullivan, city ticket agent. Similar reports have been received by C. A. Redmond, city passenger agent for the Union Pacific, and H. L. Legrand, city passenger agent for the Southern Pacific.

Heavy Bookings

The peak of the summer rush is expected about the middle of June, eastern railroad officials report. Extra equipment is being massed in the heavy travel centers, preparatory to bringing thousands to the coast for conventions, vacation trips and seeking homes. The closing of schools next month will see an increase in westward travel, it is believed, as heavy advance bookings are reported by eastern offices for vacation periods.

Feeder lines for transcontinental lines also report heavy business since the new rates became effective May 15. The additional touch of festival year in California will be the magnet that will draw many persons to this state during the summer, it is believed.

Reduced round trip rates eastward will go into effect in California on May 22, officials of transcontinental lines report.

Glandale Woman Plans Extended Trip Abroad

Mrs. Seymour Hardy Thompson of 110 West Gilbert street will spend the summer abroad, traveling with her sisters, Miss Elizabeth S. Porter of Santa Barbara and Miss Rebecca W. Porter of Berkeley, the author, and her secretary, Miss Hestor Cooke. Leaving California early in June, the party will stop at points of interest en route to New York. They will sail June 20 on the Adriatic. They will tour Europe. Returning, Mrs. Thompson and Miss Elizabeth Porter will spend some time in New York and Washington, D. C. Mrs. Thompson plans to be gone over three months.

VOLUME XX NUMBER 226

Daily Greeting to News Readers

TOO MUCH MONEY—
Has not yet been spent on schools and libraries.
Goes into policemen that should go into playgrounds.
Is the most serious handicap any boy can encounter.
Is a poor substitute for a parent's companionship.
Is earned through efficiency and lost through stupidity.
Is spent on clothes and not enough on homes.
Is a greater moral hazard than too little money.

WHAT SHALL WE BELIEVE?

We who have grown up believing in certain historical incidents, legends, myths and superstitions that have become almost a part of our lives are rudely jolted every now and then when we are told there is no foundation for our beliefs. Scarcely a morning but we wake up to learn that the world has outgrown something to which we had pinned our faith. We should not be surprised to hear any time that there is no virtue in the left hind foot of a rabbit, and that Henry Ford, and not Columbus, discovered America.

One of the Washington Weather Bureau experts has announced that the equinoctial storm, made so much of by the village weather prophet and the old-time almanac, is a myth. In other words, there is no such thing. And to think how many times we watched the rain come down in torrents to the accompaniment of rolling and pealing thunder and the vivid flash of lightning, the trees bending almost to the ground in the fierce wind. We thought we were watching an equinoctial storm, and there is no such thing. How frightened we should have been if we had known it then.

What we have called an equinoctial storm, says this expert, is merely a storm that happens to come at the time of the equinox, just as a Friday storm is one that happens to break on the day after Thursday. In neither case has the arrival of the equinox or the arrival of Friday anything to do with it. This, of course, is known to all persons who have taken the trouble to learn facts about the weather, but the idea of equinoctial storms is an old one and widespread. The passage of the equinox does not affect the weather one way or another.

WAGES OF KINGS

Scrapping her kings has been a profitable business for Europe, as far as salaries are concerned, if in no other way. Kaiser Wilhelm had $5,000,000 a year at his disposal. Franz Josef of Austria only a little less than that and the Czar of Russia $8,000,000. And these three are gone.

"The Nation" gives a list of salaries or allowances paid to kings and emperors which indicates that the king business still pays well, even if its future is a little uncertain. It also proves that there is ample opportunity for reform in those countries which still invest their money in the tinsel of royalty. The Nation copies these figures from a republican propaganda pamphlet issued in Germany, and extremely telling argument for republican government it is:

The king of Siam	$3,500,000
The king of Italy	3,200,000
The king of England	2,900,000
The emperor of Japan	2,250,000
The king of Spain	1,775,000
The king of Belgium	1,075,000
The king of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes	655,500
The king of Rumania	500,000
The king of Sweden	463,600
The king of Bulgaria	400,000
The king of Denmark	300,000
The king of Norway	244,000

A comparison of these sums allowed annually to figureheads in European and Asiatic countries with the princely salary of $75,000 a year which we pay to our president is interesting, to say the least.

GOOD HABITS IN READING

With the libraries and book stores full of good, entertaining, inspirational, character-building literature, it is surprising that parents allow their children—when they read at all—to waste their time reading things that not only have no meaning, no moral, no uplift, but are often just the reverse.

There is no habit so pleasurable and profitable as that of reading and the habit of reading good things is as easily acquired as the habit of reading trash. Parents and teachers have no greater or graver responsibility than to encourage children to read and to form good reading habits. Parents would be horrified to see their children sitting down to a meal of garbage, yet they think nothing of it when the young people buy those magazines which are frankly risqué. And the harm is not so much in what they learn from these stories and jokes as in the certainty that they will lose a taste for literature that is good and elevating.

GOSPEL OF CLEANLINESS

It has always been said that trade with so-called heathen nations must be preceded by American missionaries and their work. Everywhere the drummer and the merchant have followed the missionary. While it has not been the aim to extend our trade through the preaching of the gospel, that has been one result of missionary effort. The American soldier did not go to France to preach the gospel or to promote our commercial relations with that country. But he did preach the gospel of cleanliness and it has had its effect upon trade. He took to France his habits as well as information about the toothbrush, the bathtub, the sewer and other things which we consider essential to cleanly habits. As a result it is said that France is now using twice as much water per capita for domestic purposes as before the war.

SINNERS INVITED

"A reign of love and liberty" is announced by the new mayor of Deauville, France, for that popular resort. There are to be no laws, no closing hours for anything, no limit on gambling, and bathers may appear as they wish. Sinners are cordially invited to Deauville, if they have the price—and the price is high.

No doubt the resort will be the Mecca of those who cry for personal liberty and chafe under the restrictions of laws. There they can go the limit. Deauville, under the new regime, will be an example for the rest of the world; proof of the necessity for law and decency. And a short residence there may cause some of our personal liberty devotees to have a greater respect for law and an appreciation for the protection of law.

Some ambitious people rise from nothing to something worse.

SPEAKING OF SUICIDE CLUBS—!

Sentiment As a Drug

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Joseph Louis Vance calls sentiment a drug.

Men drug themselves with all sorts of things, some with food, some with drink, and some with medicine.

A life without sentiment would be a terrible thing, but sentiment can always be restrained by reason and governed by it.

Those who allow themselves to be swayed by sentiment against their reason are acting emotionally and not rationally.

There are some who get such pleasure out of sentiment, or such pain—in any way, such feeling—that before sentiment reason gives way, and thus they become sentimental addicts.

One of the most terrible things in life is to "emote" too much. Often a wife becomes dissatisfied, though her reason tells her that her lot is a happy one, when her sentiments are not satisfied.

A sentiment can be a prejudice when it sways us contrary to our reason and veils for us the facts of life.

Most of us are swayed by sentiment more than we think.

We should not let our feelings dominate us, although it is equally wrong to be without any feeling.

Feelings are given us to criticize and adjust and to place in their proper place. They are like horses that are very useful when broken and steadily driven, but are dangerous when they run wild.

Every movement has its wild men. There have been wild persons against temperance, wild persons against tobacco, and wild persons who have advocated every other good cause.

One does the most good when he acts according to his intelligence and is backed up by sentiment.

A sentimental addict is unhappy himself and is a cause of unhappiness in others. This is because sentiment cannot be argued with. It speaks with the intolerance of the instincts. The only person who can be argued with is one who governs himself by reason and keeps his sentiments subservient to reason.

Sentiment thus is like salt. A little of it is good, but too much of it spoils the meat.

A man without sentiment is cold and harsh and unlovable, but one with too much sentiment is about as bad.

As in everything else we must use our judgment, must never let ourselves get beyond control, never let any sentiment carry us beyond the barriers of intelligence.

Horoscope

This is an uncertain day, according to astrology. While Uranus and Jupiter are in malefic aspect, Neptune is friendly.

It is wise to sell under this planetary government, but all temptation to speculate should be resisted.

This is not a promising sway for starting new enterprises, for the judgment can not be trusted.

There is a sign read as indicating bad luck for those who do not take counsel with persons of broad viewpoints, for many silly business ventures are likely to meet with disaster at this time.

This is not an encouraging planetary government for the best interests of aviation, for Neptune indicates renewed pride in the navy.

It is read as a favorable time for starting on ocean trips, and European travel is to be uncommonly heavy.

The summer is to send many tourists to the Orient, where there will be great educational advancement and many new American and European schools started.

Palestine is to attract up-to-date business as well as much erudite interest in the coming summer, in which it will become one of the popular tourist destinations.

Business of minor importance, especially whatever has to do with the selling of oil, is subject to profit, it is foretold.

June is to be a month of many excitements, if the stars are read aright, for Mars passing through Cancer will affect the countries under the sign. New York is also to be affected. Need of work will be great in certain parts of Europe, and great fires are indicated between the ninth and twelfth of the month.

Speculation is to be especially hazardous all through the next month, and excitement on the stock exchange is presaged.

Persons whose birthdate it is should not take any business risks in the coming year, which may be more or less troublesome even though it should be profitable.

Children born on this day may be rather easy-going and a bit careless with their money. These subjects of Taurus may have strong Gemini characteristics. They will be inclined to travel.

Today's Poem

LAST LINES

No coward soul is mine,
No trembler in the world's storm-troubled sphere;
I see Heaven's glories shine,
And faith shines equal, arming me from fear.

O God within my breast,
Almighty, ever-present Deity!
Life—that in me has rest,
As I—undying Life—have power in Thee!

Vain are the thousand creeds
That move men's hearts; unutterably vain;
Worthless as wither'd weeds,
Or idlest froth amid the boundless main.

To waken doubt in one
Holding so fast by Thine infinity;
So surely anchor'd on
The steadfast rock of immortality.

With wide-embracing love
Thy Spirit animates eternal years,
Pervades and broods above,
Changes, sustains, dissolves, creates, and rears.

Though earth and man were gone,
And suns and universes cease to be,
And Thou were left alone,
Every existence would exist in Thee.

There is not room for Death,
Nor atom that his might could render void;
Thou—Thou art Being and Breath,
And what Thou art may never be destroyed.

—Emily Bronte.

GRAVE YARD JEWELS

While walking among the tombstones in Winchester cathedral grounds recently, an English working man found a necklace valued at $5000 for which a reward of $425 had been offered.

Timely Views

America's failure at law enforcement has impressed European statesmen more than anything else about the country, according to Richard Washburn Child, former ambassador to Italy. Child, who classifies himself as a lawyer, although he has served as a writer, editor, lecturer and diplomat, believes lawlessness will become much worse before it is remedied.

Remarking upon the difficulty attached to getting an honest opinion on America from the European diplomats, Child said: "When you can get men of really substantial opinion to take off the lid and say what they actually think about this country, they will say that we're great at passing laws, but utterly fail to enforce them.

"They don't mean merely the flaunting of the prohibition amendment, but our laws in general. Our murder record is particularly bad, both because of the number of crimes committed and because of the few convictions obtained.

"Lawlessness is going to become more and more a problem in this country. I believe the situation will become much worse than it is now before any lasting reform is effected."

Asked about remedies, he replied: "A remaking of our system of punishing crime, which will act faster than the organization now going on in the crime world. Crime is becoming a business. More money is being invested in it all the time. One reads of fewer wars between gangs than two years ago. The reason for this is the large operators in crime are taking the smaller ones into their organization to keep the little fellows from discrediting the business by acts of violence, such as shootings."

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

CLARK KINNAIRD

An oratorical gentleman, speaking in the east, declaims that a man who obeys the laws is free.

Nonsense.

Liberty, it has been said over and over, has no place in society, since it does not exist in nature.

There is no free animal.

"Free and equal" is an idle phrase. The idea of equality is less reasonable than that of freedom, and it is an unfortunate idea in that it presupposes a false ideal.

"We have not to seek whether men are equal among themselves." Anatole France observes. "What we must see to is that each one shall supply his best and receive all necessaries of life.

"As to fraternity, we know only too well how brothers have acted towards brothers during the course of centuries.

"We do not pretend to say that men are bad. We do not say that they are bad. They are what they are, but they will live in peace, when there will be no longer any reasons for them to fight one another."

"It is good for man to work," Anatole France opined in another place.

"It takes man's mind off his own life and turns him away from dreadful self-extermination; it keeps him from that which makes solitude unbearable, the contemplation of that other being, his real self.

"It is the sovereign remedy for moral and aesthetic obsessions."

Work is also excellent in that it panders to our vanity, hides from us our impotence, and flatters us in the hope of something good to come.

We imagine that it enables us to steal a march on Fate.

Failing to realize the necessary relation between individual endeavor and the mechanism of the universe, as France puts it, we fondly imagine that our efforts are directed to our own advantage against the rest of the machine.

Work gives us illusory determination, strength and independence, and makes us gods in our own eyes.

Who's Who

An ultimatum demanding the resignation of the Portuguese government was served on President Gomes as the first gust of revolution broke out over Lisbon recently.

Gomes replied by mobilizing loyalist troops and delivering a counter-ultimatum demanding the revolutionists' surrender. The loyal troops concentrated around the rebel position and soon forced surrender.

Manuel Teixeira Gomes relinquished his post as Portuguese minister to Great Britain in 1923 to become president of his country. He was extremely popular in London and was escorted to Lisbon by a British warship. It was hoped that this open display of British approval would help to curb enthusiasm of Portuguese citizens for bloody attempts to remove from office whoever happened to be there and to set up in his place another, subject to like removal.

Gomes assumed the post of minister at the court of St. James in 1911 and consequently took part in the negotiations that brought Portugal into the World War.

Upon election to the presidency of Portugal in 1923 he pledged himself to a policy of unification—an attempt to bring the conflicting parties of Portugal together on the common basis of the welfare of the republic.

Gomes has written books and collected curios. Until the revolution of 1910 which turned the monarchy into a republic he lived on his parents' estate in the country. His grandfather had cherished liberal sentiments and had suffered for them.

His father was educated in France and from him the future president got his republicanism. Senator Gomes was dividing his time among farming, writing and collecting when the republic sent him to London as its first minister.

AIR MAGAZINE COMING TO GLENDALE

Official Organ Of Western Aero League Will Be Published Here

Garey C. Carr, publisher of the Ace, leading aeronautical magazine of the Southwest, announced today that the June issue will bear a Glendale date line and that offices of the magazine will be maintained in this city in the future. The June number will be off the press within a few days. In it will be contained important stories on the formation of the Western Aero league at the meeting of flying enthusiasts at Santa Barbara last Saturday and of the Bell air meet held Sunday afternoon. In both of these events Glendale men took important parts.

Mr. Carr said that he would make the formal announcement of his relocation of headquarters in Glendale before the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon. He said that he came to this city of his own accord when he realized that Glendale, showing the greatest interest and enthusiasm, is bound to become the center of air activity of the Southwest. Many Glendale business men expressed their pleasure over the locating of the "Ace" here today. They said they would endeavor to support the publication in every way possible.

The "Ace" at present has a circulation of over 3000 copies in Southern California and contiguous territory. It is the only publication devoted to aeronautics in this part of the country at the present time. He will endeavor, as the official mouthpiece of the Western Aero league, to work for the best interests of commercial and sporting aviation and to boost Glendale as the recognized center of air activities," Mr. Carr said.

FORMER ELKS' DRILL TEAM APPEARS

Old Timers Show Members Of Local Lodge Work Not Forgotten

Thirty members of the old-time drill team of Glendale Elks lodge lined up on the lodge room floor last night, after years of inactivity, went through drill movements like trained West Pointers. Capt. W. C. Wattles commanded the drillers and gave a short talk on the work of the team in the days of its prime and the part it played in planting the roots of Elkdom in Glendale and the San Fernando valley. The occasion was in honor of the team which in its day held state championship honors for Elks lodges.

A feature of the meeting was the visit of members of the drill team and band of Pasadena lodge who attended the meeting in the interest of their "Days of '49" to be held on Friday and Saturday of this week at the Pasadena clubhouse on West Colorado street.

Plans for the benefit band concert to be given by the state champion musicians of Glendale lodge at the Broadway High school auditorium Thursday night, were completed at the business meeting last night. A record crowd is expected when the funds will be raised to take the band to the national convention this summer.

Elks and their friends will dance at the East Colorado street clubhouse Saturday night. Next Monday night officers of the new Burbank lodge will confer degree work on a large class of Glendale candidates.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, May 19.—The Chamber of Commerce met in regular session. The president, Judge Breidt, spoke in regard to the attitude of the Chamber of Commerce toward the newly-elected city government, and stated that while many things that the Chamber of Commerce had looked after would be taken over by the Board of Trustees of the city, there was sufficient scope for the work of the Chamber of Commerce also and that the support of the latter would be given to the city government and that all should unite in the upbuilding and development of the community.

The Fourth of July committee meeting was appointed for Friday evening. The meeting adjourned early as President Breidt and J. O'B. Bodkin, secretary, desired to attend the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the San Fernando valley, held in Glendale that evening.

The committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce through its president, Judge Breidt, to consider the matter of a Fourth of July celebration for Tujunga, met Friday night, May 15, at the school auditorium. The organizations represented were: Tujunga Chamber of Commerce, Tujunga Women's club, American Legion, American Legion, auxiliary and the Kiwanis club. Judge Breidt, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was made president of the Fourth of July celebration committee, Elizabeth W. Benedict, secretary. The desirability and manner of holding a celebration was informally discussed, and it was voted to hold an old-time Fourth of July celebration. Harry W. Zachau was appointed as committee of one to obtain information as to the possibility of securing the use of the Garden of the Moon for holding the exercises during the day; A. J. Scribner to obtain information in regard to features of entertainment. The next meeting of the committee was set for Wednesday night, May 20.

The Tujunga Women's club is arranging with the sister clubs of Sunland, La Crescenta, Highway Highlands, and La Canada, to sponsor a "Neighborhood Night" on Saturday, May 30, at San Gabriel to witness the presentation of John Steven McGroarty's new drama, La Golondrina. Tickets will be sold at reduced prices and transportation arranged for in same manner as was done for Tujunga night at the Mission Play. It is anticipated that a large number will take advantage of the opportunity of witnessing this wonderful play.

Mrs. Annie Kindler was guest of honor at a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mark White, Thursday, May 7. A number of friends had united with the host and hostess to surprise Mrs. Kindler and celebrate her birthday. The rooms and tables were decorated with roses, guests were provided with fancy caps, and a beautifully-decorated birthday cake added to the pleasure of the occasion. Those present were: Mrs. Flora Morgan and daughter, Mrs. Bertha Morgan; Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Warnick and daughter Melba; Mr. and Mrs. G. A. WHITE Bed Spreads are slipping. In other words, the old "counterpane," whose snowy whiteness covered the patchwork and Log Cabin quilt a few years back is fast losing its popularity. Benjamin Bledsoe, Former Federal Judge, Will Be Glendale Speaker

Former Federal Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe will be the principal speaker at the Memorial day exercises planned for May 30, by Glendale patriotic organizations. Judge Bledsoe, representing the Grand Army contingent, will deliver his address at Forest Lawn Memorial park during the exercises, preceded by a memorial parade through the downtown district.

Other speakers on the program will be William H. Reeves of Pasadena, representing Spanish War Veterans and Frank C. Weller, Glendale assemblyman representing the American Legion. These speakers were announced at a meeting of the Memorial Day committee held at the Wilson Intermediate school last night, T. M. Barrett presiding.

Final plans for the monster observance, to be the most impressive in the history of Glendale, will be completed at a meeting called for next Monday night at the Wilson school, when representatives of all patriotic organizations participating will be present.

It is tentatively planned to visit Grandview Memorial park in conjunction with the ceremonies of Burbank American Legion post there during the morning of Memorial day. Early in the afternoon all patriotic orders will assemble in the downtown district and will march to Forest Lawn Memorial park where decoration of soldier graves and the speaking program will take place.

Inspector Entertained By Local Commandery

Members of Glendale Commandery, Knights Templar, were hosts last night to William Schrerber, inspector for this district, who was honored at a dinner for Templars and their wives and later conducted an inspection of the commandery. Inspector Schrerber, in a short talk, complimented the Glendale knights for their splendid work.

Knights attended the funeral services at Lankershim this afternoon of Mrs. James Wilson, wife of the commander of Hollywood commandery. The funeral took place at 2 o'clock.

EXPECT HEAVY VOTE AT ATWATER POLLS

Four Major Projects to Be Decided at Election Next Month; Also Select First District Councilman

A vote even larger than that polled at the primaries is expected in the Atwater district at the forthcoming election on June 2, when at least four major items to be voted upon directly affect the section.

Bonds for new bridges at Fletcher and Glendale avenue, for school tunnels, one of which will be located at the corner of Glendale boulevard and Atwater avenue, and for new branch libraries in which Atwater will also share, will all receive the favorable vote of electors in the district.

Aside from this a councilman to represent the first district, of which the Atwater section is an important part, will be elected.

Other issues on the ballot will have their effect in urging the voters to the polls, but it is upon the interest already manifest in these four main questions that political authorities base their prediction of a large Atwater vote.

Wardlaw Platform Told

The platform of Charles T. Wardlaw, council candidate in the first district, was outlined to political and community leaders of the Atwater section last night at a mass meeting at Wardlaw headquarters, 3202 Glendale boulevard.

Bob Hanley, well-known Los Angeles attorney, told the Wardlaw supporters that the valley man has centered his attention on half a dozen local matters of improvement vital to the continued life and growth of the San Fernando valley, where he has lived and been a civic leader for many years.

Mr. Wardlaw originated the rapid transit scheme for valley cities more than four years ago, before engineers ever gave thought to such a scheme, he said. The proposed rapid transit up the Los Angeles river will give Atwater 10-minute service into Los Angeles at a cost much less than the present street car fare, Mr. Hanley said.

Proposes Bridges

The attorney appealed for the support of voters in the Ivanhoe district on the grounds that Mr. Wardlaw, alone, has interested himself in the flood control work being done and contemplated in the upper valley, work that is vital to sections lying below Atwater Park, where destructive floods would result were there heavy rains under the present unprotected conditions.

Proposed bridges at Fletcher drive, Glendale and Hyperion boulevards and Cahuenga Pass have received the blanket endorsement of Mr. Wardlaw, the speaker said.

"Mr. Wardlaw is the only candidate who can assure construction of the bridges, even if the bonds for the work are voted," said Hanley. "The other candidate has used the bridge issue in trading with other districts and will be sewed up by outside pledges if he gets on the council. Atwater Park and the adjacent sections, so badly in need of better transportation facilities, will go without bridges for a long time yet unless Mr. Wardlaw is elected to fight their battle through to a finish."

Boy Scouts Will Meet

Boy Scouts of Atwater troop 65 will meet at the Neighborhood Christian church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. All Scouts must be present at the meeting, Scoutmaster Peterman said, as patrols will be formed tonight. Plans for the Scouts' old newspaper drive will also be worked out. Mr. Peterman announced that headquarters for the newspaper drive will be at the campaign headquarters of Charles T. Wardlaw, council candidate, at 3202 Glendale boulevard. Permission has been granted to collect the papers there, he said.

A Scouts' auxiliary, consisting of mothers of all Boy Scouts in the district, will be formed soon. A preliminary meeting of mothers will be announced through these columns later.

City's Growth Shown By Report On Phones

was caused by the addition of the Universal City exchange to the Lankershim office.

No city outside of the San Fernando valley showed a gain greater than Glendale, excepting Pasadena, where the increase was 6.24 per cent. This mark did not come up to that established by Burbank.

Manager Deal pointed out that the record established by San Fernando valley exchanges stands unchallenged not only in Southern California, but over the entire territory served by the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. Excepting for one or two instances where new exchanges have been created under unusual circumstances, Glendale and the San Fernando valley leads in five states, California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada and Idaho.

The Glendale exchange gained 440 new telephones from January 1 to April 1. This brings the total subscribers in Glendale to 7,725. In Burbank where there were 1,133 phones the first of the year, there are now 1,206, a gain of seventy-three subscribers.

Missionary Students To Present Program

Students of Huntington Park Missionary Training school will appear in a program tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at Central Avenue Methodist church. Twenty-five students will appear on the program of story and song, under direction of Professor Foth. Rev. Leo C. Kline, pastor announces that the program will take the place of the regular prayer meeting service. The public is invited.

CORNS AND BUNIONS

Here's a good old definition of a Corn for the cross word puzzle addicts—(I've recovered, thank Allah!)—who want some wordy words.

Corn (Clavus)

A local hyperkeratosis with inflammation and atrophy of cuticle, situated especially in the phalangeal articulations of the toes or the metarsal prominences.

Another old writer refers to corns as "cuticular excrescences." That sounds profane enough to relieve our feelings. He goes on to say: "The fashion of considering certain ailments as beneath the dignity of science is pernicious and the result has been that the neglected extremities of the system have been consigned to ignorant quacks or to absurd or vulgar prejudices. If trifles make up the sum of human bliss they often make the sum of human misery."

That boy had suffered, evidently.

Treatment

If possible, go to a good chiropodist and have your corns pared off. Or, if you are skilful, you may do your own paring. You've got to dissect out the core or you won't have any relief. The little safety blades with the blade on only one side, make good corn knives. Always soak the feet for a short time before paring; then you are not so liable to cut yourself. Pass the blade through a flame two or three times, quickly, to sterilize it. If you do cut yourself, apply a little iodin and don't leave any overlapping tags so that any germs present will cuddle under and begin to multiply. Keep a piece of clean gauze or a bit of absorbent cotton (held on with adhesive plaster), wet with some antiseptic solution—boric acid, one teaspoonful to the cup of water, boiled together, is good—until it is entirely healed.

There is probably less danger in remedies which soften the corns and permit them to be pulled off. The following are good prescriptions:

Corn Remedies

1. Salicylic acid, 1 dram (about one level teaspoonful).
   Flexible collodion, 1 ounce.
   Ten grains of cannabis indica may be added to relieve pain.

Soak the foot before applying. Then apply solution night and morning for five to six days. Soak the foot again in hot water, softened with soda, one teaspoon to the quart; then gently pull off corn.

2. Resorcin plaster of 20 per cent strength worn for some days.

After your corns are removed, you can keep them off by a daily rubbing of pumice stone.

After they once form, even though correct shoes are worn, they are apt to grow again after removal unless this precaution is taken, for unlike the horny layer elsewhere, the corn horny layer grows faster than it is shed.

If the corns are very painful, apply a ring of felt wadding with an adhesive side, with the hollow part directly over the side of the core. (You can get these things I have spoken of in most any drugstore.)

Soft Corns

Wash daily with soap and water and wipe between the toes very thoroughly. (Always do this.) Try to remove the corn first; then paint with spirits of camphor at night and at all times wear little wads of lamb's wool between the toes. Put a pinch of baking soda or boracic acid powder between the toes first. (Lamb's wool can be purchased in little cartons at the drugstore.)

Bunions

Bunions are always due to the wearing of shoes that do not fit, usually those that are too short. Children especially should have shoes large enough to allow for their growth. Bunions are partial dislocations of the great toe from pressure. Eventually the toe joint becomes enlarged and inflamed and the bursa or sack on the joint also becomes inflamed. Now may come a corn on that! The only real cure for bunions is the operative removal of the projecting joint. Bunion plasters may give relief.

Reader of Our Column: "I wonder if you or any of our Column Readers could give me the recipe for old-fashioned 'Buckwheat Pudding' which my great-grandmother made?"

Answer: I am sorry that I haven't this recipe, but let us hope that somebody else will, and will be good enough to write it on a postal card and mail it to me in care of this paper for publication."

Mrs. A.: "How shall I line my baby's toilet basket? I have bought one of the inexpensive, unlined ones and do not care to line it with quilted pink or blue silk, as I see them lined in shops. I prefer a pink lining that could be removed and washed easily. Can you suggest a suitable material?"

Answer: A dainty yet practical lining can be made of pink sateen, used double thickness (back to back). Mitre the corners and feather-stitch along the mitre-seam. Also feather-stitch around the top. Finish it by whipping a three-quarters-inch-wide edging of Val lace around the top edge. This need not be quilted, as it has no stuffing.

Bride-to-Be: "I am buying equipment for my new home. Do I need a carpet sweeper as well as an electric vacuum cleaner? A neighbor of mine says the day of the carpet sweeper is over; is this true?"

Answer: To my mind, the carpet sweeper has a place of its own in the home that nothing else can, or ever will, fill. You will find one useful a dozen times a week. It is most handy in taking up anything spilled on a rug, where you would find it a little more of a nuisance to attach the vacuum cleaner. Many housewives keep a carpet sweeper on hand merely to run over the dining room rug after every meal—to take up crumbs which may have fallen from the table. Of course you will need a vacuum cleaner, too, but you will be wise to add a carpet sweeper to your equipment list.

Inexperienced: How is grease removed from a wood kitchen floor?"

Answer: Pour a little alcohol on the spot, wipe it off, apply a little more alcohol and let this stand for a few minutes before wiping the place with a clean cloth. You will find that the grease is gone. (Before using the alcohol you must, of course, scrape up all the grease possible.)

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

ANSWERED LETTERS

June H.:—A girl of 20 years with a height of five feet, four inches, is normal weight from 115 to 118 pounds.

Madelaine W.:—You must be overweight to be getting a lump of fat at the back of the neck, and it is best to hide it by having your dresses cut somewhat higher in back until you manage to get rid of it. If the lemon juice has not made your hair brittle you are not injuring it by using it. Castile soap is an oil soap so it would naturally counteract the acid of the lemon in the last shampoo rinse.

Miss Ignorant:—Sometimes a deep line in the center of the forehead comes from straining the eyes. If you need glasses it would cause such trouble. Massage across the line, using the finger tips much the same as if you were literally ironing out the line. Any nourishing cream will do for a massage, but the preference is for one made from vegetable oils.

Shirley:—If you have your hair marcelled with heated irons for a time it will dry out the oils and other secretions, and make the hair brittle and apt to break on the ends. A girl of 16 years with a height of five feet, four inches, is normal weight from 125 to 118 pounds.

Estelle S.:—In almost any large city you can find a plastic surgeon who can perform the operation of pulling up the facial muscles through a removal of a piece of skin under the hair. It amounts to taking a tuck in the loose skin, clipping off the section and sewing the edges together. There are people who feel this makes them appear to be younger, as it smooths out the skin, but there is also the possibility of changing the entire expression of the face, even to the extent of giving it a lifeless or wooden look.

M. L.:—With a height of five feet, one inch at 27 years of age, you are at least 15 pounds overweight at 140 pounds. Eat less of all foods at each meal for a few days, and then begin to diet by omitting sugar, cream, rich pastries and some of the more starchy foods. In a few months of dieting this way you will be normal in weight and also build up your whole system. About five pounds a month will be enough to lose.

The HOUSE Of The ARROW

A SERIAL STORY WRITTEN BY A. E. W. MASON

Protected By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"Don't make too much of me, my friend, lest you be disappointed," he said in all seriousness. "We are the servants of Chance, the very best of us. Our skill is to seize quickly the hem of her skirt, when it flashes for the fraction of a second before our eyes."

He replaced the two anonymous letters in the green cover and laid it again in the drawer. Then he gathered together the two letters which Boris Waberski had written and gave them back to Jim Frobisher.

"You will want these to produce at Dijon. You will go there today?"

"This afternoon."

"Good!" said Hanaud. "I shall take the night express."

"I can wait for that," said Jim. But Hanaud shook his head.

"It is better that we should not go together, nor stay at the same hotel. It will very quickly be known in Dijon that you are the English lawyer of Miss Harlowe, and those in your company will be marked men, too. By the way, how were you informed in London that I, Hanaud, had been put in charge of this case?"

"We had a telegram," replied Jim.

"Yes? And from whom? I am curious!"

"From Miss Harlowe."

For a moment Hanaud was for the second time in that interview quite disconcerted. Of that Jim Frobisher could have no doubt. He sat for so long a time, his cigarette half-way to his lips, a man turned into stone. Then he laughed rather bitterly, with his eyes alertly turned on Jim.

"Do you know what I am doing, Monsieur Frobisher?" he asked. "I am putting to myself a riddle. Answer it if you can! What is the strongest passion in the world? Avarice? Love? Hatred? None of these things. It is the passion of one public official to take a great big club and hit his brother official on the back of the head. It is arranged that I shall go secretly to Dijon so that I may have some little chance of success. Good! On Saturday it is so arranged, and already on Monday my colleagues have so spread the news that Miss Harlowe can telegraph it to you on Tuesday morning. But that is kind, eh? May I please see the telegram?

Frobisher took it from the long envelope and handed it to Hanaud, who received it with a curious eagerness and opened it out on the table in front of them. He read it very slowly, so slowly that Jim wondered whether he, too, heard through the lines of the telegram, as though the receiver of a telephone, the same piteous cry for help which he himself had heard. Indeed, when Hanaud raised his face all the bitterness had gone from it.

"The poor little girl, she is afraid now, eh? The slender fingers, they do not snap themselves any longer, eh? Well, in a few days we make all right for her."

"Yes," said Jim stoutly.

"Meanwhile I tear this, do I not?" and Hanaud held up the telegraph form. "It mentions my name. It will be safe with you, no doubt, but it serves no purpose. Everything which is torn up here is burnt in the evening. It is for you to say," and he dangled the telegram before Jim Frobisher's eyes.

"By all means," said Jim, and Hanaud tore the telegram across. Then he placed the torn pieces together and tore them through once again and dropped them into his waste-paper basket. "So! That is done!" he said. "Now tell me! There is another young English girl in the Maison Grenelle."

"Ann Upcott," said Jim

"Yes, tell me about her."

Jim made the same reply to Hanaud which he had made to Mr. Haslitt.

"I have never seen her in my life. I never heard of her until yesterday."

But, whereas Mr. Haslitt had received the answer with amazement, Hanaud accept it without comment.

"Then we shall both make the acquaintance of that young lady at Dijon," he said with a smile, and he rose from his chair.

Jim Frobisher had a feeling that the interview which had begun badly and moved on to cordiality was turning back upon itself and ending not to well. He was conscious of a subtle difference in Hanaud's manner, not a dimuinution in his friendliness, but—Jim could find nothing but Hanaud's own phrase to define the change. He seemed to have caught the hem of the skirt of Chance as it flickered for a second within his range of vision. But when it had flickered Jim could not even conjecture.

He picked up his hat and stick. Hanaud was already at the door with his hand upon the knob.

"Good-bye, Monsieur Frobisher, and I thank you sincerely for your visit."

"I shall see you in Dijon," said Jim.

"Surely," Hanaud agreed with a smile. "On many occasions. In the office, perhaps, of the examining magistrate. No doubt in the Maison Grenelle."

But Jim was not satisfied. It was a real collaboration which Hanaud had appeared a few minutes ago not merely to accept, but even to look forward to. Now, on the contrary, he was evading it.

"But if we are to work together?" Jim suggested.

"You might want to reach me quickly," Hanaud continued. "Yes. And I might want to reach you, if not so quickly, still very secretly. Yes." He turned the question over in his mind. "You will stay at the Maison Grenelle, I suppose?"

"No," said Jim, and he drew a little comfort from Hanaud's little start of disappointment. "There will be no need for that," he explained. "Boris Waberski can attempt nothing more. Those two girls will be safe enough."

"That's true," Hanaud agreed. "You will go, then, to the big hotel in the Place Darcy. For me I shall stay in one that is more obscure, and not under my own name. Whatever chance of secrecy is still left for me, that I shall cling to."

He did not volunteer the name of the obscure hotel or the name under which he proposed to masquerade, and Jim was careful not to inquire. Hanaud stood with his hand upon the knob of the door and his eyes thoughtfully resting upon Frobisher's face.

"I will trust you with a little trick of mine," he said, and a smile warmed and lit his face to good humor. "Do you like the pictures? No—yes? For me, I adore them. Wherever I go I snatch an hour for the cinema. I behold wonderful things and I behold them in the dark—so that while I watch I can talk quietly with a friend, and when the lights go up we are both gone, and only our empty bocks are left to show where we were sitting. The cinemas—yes! With their audiences which constantly change and new people coming in who sit plump down upon your lap because they cannot see an inch beyond their noses, the cinemas are useful, I tell you. But you will not betray my little secret?"

He ended with a laugh. Jim Frobisher's spirits were quite revived by this renewal of Hanaud's confidence. He felt with a curious elation that he had traveled a long way from the sedate dignities of Russell Square. He could not project in his mind any picture of Messrs. Frobisher & Haslitt meeting a client in a dark corner of a cinema theatre off the Marylebone Road. Such maneuvers were not among the firm's methods, and Jim began to find the change exhilarating. Perhaps, after all, Messrs. Frobisher & Haslitt were a little musty, he reflected. They missed—and he coined a phrase, he, Jim Frobisher! . . . they missed the ozone of police work.

"Of course I'll keep your secret," he said with a thrill in his voice. "I should never have thought of so capital a meeting place."

"Good," said Hanaud. "Then at 9 o'clock each night, unless there is something serious to prevent me, I shall be sitting in the big hall of the Grande Taverne. The Grande Taverne is at the corner across the square from the railway station. You can't mistake it. I shall be on the left-hand side of the hall and close up to the screen and at the edge near the billiard room. Don't look for me when the lights are raised, and if I am talking to any one else, you will avoid me like poison. Is that understood?"

"Quite," Jim returned.

"And you have now two secrets of mine to keep." Hanaud's face lost its smile. In some strange way it seemed to sharpen, the light-colored eyes became very still and grave. "That also is understood, Monsieur Frobisher," he said. "For I begin to think that we may both of us see strange things before we leave Dijon again for Paris."

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LONELY ROCK

All alone, on the side of a green hill above a little valley, stuck fast in the earth, was a large rock. There were no other rocks near it, though down at the foot of the hill, in the valley, were a number of great boulders and immense stones, gathered together like a crowd of people at a moving picture show.

One day, when Uncle Wiggily was hopping along on the green hillside, nibbling a bit of grass here and some clover there, the bunny rabbit gentleman drew near to the great rock. And as he sat up on his hind legs, chewing the last leaf of clover he had nibbled, Uncle Wiggily was surprised to hear the rock say:

"Oh, dear!"

"Did—did you speak?" asked the bunny, his pink nose twinkling twice as fast as usual in his excitement.

"Yes, I spoke, for I am very sad," went on the rock, and then, though he had often passed the great stone before, Uncle Wiggily noticed, for the first time, that it seemed to have eyes, a nose and a mouth, just like a face.

"Why are you sad?" asked the bunny.

"Because I am so lonely," went on the rock. "Many years ago there were other big rocks near me. We were a happy rock family living on the side of this hill. Then came heavy rains and a great flood. All the other rocks were loosened in their earth beds and rolled down the hillside to the valley beow. But there wasn't enough rain to wash me out of my bed, and I had to stay here. I have been here ever since, growing more and more lonely each year."

"That is very sad," said the bunny gentleman. "It isn't good to be lonesome. How would it be if I came here every day and talked to you?"

"That would help some," answered the lonely rock, "but it would make me very happy if I could roll down the hill and join my friends, the other rocks, in the valley below. But alas, though I am big and strong, I cannot move to roll myself down."

Uncle Wiggily twinkled his nose again and though hard. Then he said:

"I think I can help you, lonely rock, to join your friends in the valley below."

"Please do so," begged the great rock. "Here I have no one to talk to except little pebbles and stones, and they don't understand me. I belong among the big rocks."

"And there you shall be!" cried the bunny.

"Why, Daddy, how can that be " asked a voice, and along hopped Scooter, one of the new little rabbits. "How can this big rock get down hill if it can't move itself?" asked Scooter.

"I'll show you," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "You can roll down hill can't you?" he asked the big stone. "You can roll if you get a start."

"Surely," answered the lonely rock. "That is how all my friends went away from me here—by rolling down hill when the rain loosened the earth around them. Just give me a start and you'll see how quickly I can roll down."

"That's just what I'm going to do," went on Mr. Longears. "With my paws, which are made for digging, I am going to loosen the earth all around you, Mr. Rock, just as rain loosens the earth. Then Scooter and I will push you as hard as we can and I think you will roll down."

"Oh, thank you," cried the lonely rock, smiling for the first time in many years.

"And may I help dig?" asked Scooter.

Daddy Uncle Wiggily said he might. The two rabbits dug away much earth from beneath the edge of the rock nearest the valley. All around in front of the rock they dug. Then, getting behind they pushed.

"Here I go! I feel myself moving! Hurray!" cried the lonely rock. Down the hillside he crashed, bowling aside smaller stones and crushing bushes and little trees. With a bang the great rock crashed in among the other big boulders.

"Welcome. Welcome," shouted the other big stones, for they were glad to have their big brother among them. And there he remains to this day.

Thus the bunny gentleman and his little boy helped the great lonely rock, and from this we may learn, if we will that it only takes one drop of ink to make a whole glassful of water black. And if the little chicken doesn't try to pick all the spots off the polka dot dress, thinking they're grains of corn, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's little airships.

BERLENBACH SURE OF WINNING FIGHT

Believes He Has Youth And Stamina To Lift Title From McTigue

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

NEW YORK, May 19.—Youth, no doubt, would be something of a handicap to a justice of the supreme court; stamina might not be all together necessary to the watchman at the railroad crossing, and ambition undoubtedly proved the downfall of Caesar.

But, co-ordinated, they are to a boxer what a porch is to a second story man, and Paul Berlenbach has all three. He is so certain that he will be the next light heavyweight champion of the world after the milk fund fight May 29 that he has begun to look ahead to the immediate future.

Blandly, he remarked today, that he would defend the title against Jack Delaney before the end of the present outdoor season.

"It might be well to think more about beating Mike McTigue on May 29," it was suggested.

Feels Confident

"I'll beat McTigue," he remarked quietly. "I'll wear him down and then I'll beat him. He has managed to stay the limit with other men because he has tied them up in the clinches. Mike will find I'm too young and strong for that."

Berlenbach is 9 years younger than the champion and that probably will tell the story, if any is to be told on May 29. He has the youth and stamina to go fifteen rounds or fifty; he has the punch which has dropped twenty-one out of twenty-four opponents and, while his guns may miss in a limited engagement, the odds are with him over the fifteen round distance.

Paul Is Favorite

Broadway, seldom wrong when it takes the time to weigh a situation carefully, has installed Berlenbach an 8 to 5 favorite. In only a few instances has Broadway made a challenger the favorite and all of them have been justified in the post-mortem returns. Harry Greb was a stauch favorite over Johnny Wilson. Harry won. Johnny Dundee was tipped as a very good thing against Eugene Criqui. Johnny won. Charles Rosenberg entered the ring a last minute favorite over CannonBall Martin, and Charley came home on the bit.

Once Broadway manages to shake off the inhibition that a champion can do no wrong, it lines itself up with a winner.

XXVI—Limited Diets

For the persons who do not wish to try the straight milk diet or try fasting there are limited diets.

Fasting is the real short cut to health and vitality. In some cases, however, the energies become so depleted while fasting that it is really better to eat a small amount of food. In other words, limit the amount of food eaten.

While fasting a person is generally bothered very much by anxious relatives, friends and people who have absolutely no knowledge whatever of the workings of nature, people who, when they miss a meal think they are going to starve to death before the end of about four hours.

If food was taken away from them they would die in three days, not from the lack of food but from the lack of knowledge. As a matter of fact, those who will think a little, will discover that "Ignorance" causes more trouble in this world than any other one thing.

Statistics from the chemical department of Washington, D. C., show that the American people spend $700,000,000 dollars per month for foodless food, money that would not be spent if every person had a knowledge of the value of natural food.

Many people have made this remark to me, "How in the world can one tell what to eat when different writers and food scientists do not agree on the same subject?" This is the same question that puzzled me twenty years ago. After spending thousands of dollars on books and experimenting, I discovered that natural food eaten in the natural state and masticated naturally would bring natural results as nature intended it should, and any one following nature's plan will enjoy perfect health.

Vancouver Team Wins Second Hockey Game

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—Vancouver, British Columbia, hockey players took the second game of the five-game series with the Los Angeles Monarchs last night by a 3-to-2 score. Lefty Wing, for the northerners, played a stellar game, his accurate work with the puck netting all three points in the opening period. Vancouver has won both games of the series.

Mogridge had nothing but a sleeve and the Indians fell on him for enough runs in the opening inning to beat the Senators 9 to 6.

AMERICAN WOMAN GOLFER WINS OUT

Glenna Collett Takes Second Round Open Tournament In Troon, Scotland

By HARRY FLORY
For International News Service

TROON, Scotland, May 19.—American golf came triumphantly through the second round of the British women's open tournament today when Miss Glenna Collett, former American champion, defeated Miss M. R. Cox, the Welsh champion, by the decisive score of five and three.

The victory of the invading American star made a deep impression on the large gallery that followed the match, for Miss Cox is one of England's best.

Miss Collett was only one up at the turn. She won the third hole with a five against Miss Cox's six and all of the other holes in the first nine were halved, indicating the tenacity with which the Welsh champion clung on. The last nine, however, was a different story.

As a result of her decisive victory, and particularly the brand of golf displayed on the inward nine, Miss Collett's stock took a decided upward leap. The match was followed by a large gallery, whose members divided their time by watching the American star and the British champion, Miss Joyce Wethered, who teed off just behind. Miss Wethered met Miss Allen MacBeth.

While Miss Collett was winning handily, another American entry did not fare so well.

Miss Harriet Ellison of Boston was eliminated by Mrs. J. C. Allan of Winnipeg, 2 and 1, Miss Ellison's defeat left Miss Collett the sole American representative in the tournament.

Miss Wethered was returned an easy victor in her match with Mrs. MacBeth, 6 and 5.

The victory of Miss Wethered, the playing-through champion, and Miss Collett's victory bring these two outstanding stars together in the third round.

Miss Collett was never down to her opponent and yet at the end of the first nine things looked none too rosy for the American star. She played sound golf from the first tee, yet the Welsh champion matched her stroke for stroke save on the third hole.

Plays Perfect Golf

On the homeward nine, however, Glenna "tightened up" and played perfect golf, while her opponent began to slip. The 420 yard tenth was halved in fives. The eleventh, 315 yards, provided Miss Collett with her second victory. On this hole she scored a birdie three. She increased her lead to three by winning the twelfth with a four against Miss Cox's five. They halved the 350 yard thirteenth with fours. Miss Cox was in trouble on the short fourteenth, taking four against Miss Collett's three and the American was four up.

The match ended on the fifteenth green with Miss Collett scoring a brilliant birdie four, while her opponent was taking a disastrous six. The hole is 425 yards in length and is a difficult one.

BASEBALL

The game between the Huli Trucks and the Firemen last night at the Broadway High school diamond, was declared a forfeit in favor of the truckmen by Umpire Eugene Wolfe in the first half of the fourth inning. The Huli Trucks were leading by a large majority when the order was issued.

Tonight the Postoffice crew will meet the Radios. The mail carriers battled eleven innings at Long Beach Sunday against the beach city carriers, the game ending in a tie, 5 to 5. A snappy, fast battle is expected when the carriers meet the Radios at 5:30 o'clock tonight. The game will be played at the Broadway High school grounds. Tomorrow night the Public Service players cross bats with the Glendale Creamery.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, May 19.—A showdown has come between the minor leagues and the majors in regard to whether fifteen or eight players may be put out on option but not in the manner that some seem to infer.

One hundred players are not to be cut loose, nor do the minor leagues gain one player in addition to those they would have had whether the optional list was fifteen or eight. The players go out from the majors in any event. What the minors may gain is possible title to 112 players more than they would have if the options were fifteen. In other words, there are 112 less players who may be called back under the rule which permits eight options to each major league team, than if fifteen options were permitted.

The rule of eight never has been changed by consent of the minor leagues. The increase to fifteen was an arbitrary act on the part of the commissioner of baseball, who assumed the right to make it because the minor leagues adopted a resolution at Louisville which was not to the liking of the majors.

In the last session of the minor leagues at Hartford, in 1924, a resolution was passed declaring the minors were for a limit of eight options, as they had been always, and seeking their secretary to produce the authority by which he permitted the majors to put out fifteen players under option to each of the clubs.

Secretary Farrell immediately passed the buck to Commissioner Landis, stating that the commissioner had ordered it. That did not seem to convince some of the minor league owners that it was right, and Farrell's explanation was not received with any great warmth.

Now the office of the commissioner has suddenly notified the owners of major league clubs that eight players are all that can be put out on option by each club. It was stated that a mail vote had been taken which made it evident that the majors were willing to abide by the agreement for eight which in reality always has been in effect.

Colonel Ruppert of the Yanks says he did not receive any notification of a mail vote and that in accordance with the commissioner's earlier ruling he has already put out five players in excess of eight. He wants to know who is going to make good to him for the baseball title he has in the players and for their value, as they cost him something.

"I suppose," said the colonel, "I could cover them up but that would be very bad, wouldn't it? It never is done," continued the colonel somewhat sarcastically. "I dont's wish to do it. I want somebody to tell me why before I put these players out, I was not notified that I could not do so and why I am supposed to lose my title to them and the amount that I may have invested in them. Somebody has to make good. More than ever I am convinced that baseball needs business methods as well as some other things in connection with it."

It is true that the National League owners did not put out to exceed eight optional players with the minors and that is another thing that does not go very well with some of the American League folks. They want to know why it was that the National League discovered it had better stick to eight.

Meanwhile this new order does not in any way increase the number of players who will go back from the major league to the minors. By June 15 the majors must get down to twenty-five active men no matter what rules are in effect. But it does make it possible for the minors to gain title—actual title—to more players, unless some kind of shenanigan is resorted to.

WELTER KING AT VERNON TONIGHT

But Mickey Walker Will Not Be Fighting; Second For Harry Kahn

Mickey Walker will be the whole show tonight at the Vernon arena. Not that the welterweight champion is going to sling any leather, for his official duties tonight will be seconding Harry Kahn and giving him a few tips between rounds. Manager Jack Kearns will be near the ringside to see that his two proteges do the proper thing at the proper time.

Incidentally, Harry Kahn will battle Johnny Lamar in the main event at Vernon. Kahn, who hails from Cleveland, is making his first start in California. Lamar is favorably known throughout Southland fight circles. The bout will be ten rounds or less.

In the semi-windup, Jimmy Darrah will meet Lou Rollinger, for six rounds. Charlie Feraci and Sailor Ashmore are billed for six rounds in the special spot. Benny Bunch and Checkie Herman, 118-pounders, are down for four rounds, and Joe Pena and Red Fitzsimmons will open the show.

Mandell Eliminated From N. Y. Tourney

NEW YORK, May 19.—The elimination of Sammy Mandell from the lightweight tourney for fouling Jimmy Goodrich in the sixth round last night will stand, it was stated today by William Muldoon of the New York State Boxing commission. Muldoon witnessed the unfortunate ending of the battle and sai' there was no question but that Mandell's foul was unintentional, but his elimination nevertheless stands.

Mandell had won four of the rounds but was warned several times by Referee Tommy Sheridan for hitting low. The deciding punch was a left hook to the groin that sank Goodrich to the floor.

London's value for taxation is $251,540,000, according to the new quinquennial valuation.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, May 19.—This Bud Gorman, who is being rigged up for a match with Young Bob Fitzsimmons at the Polo Grounds, does not appear in the record books.

Yet in the west he has been fighting for quite a long time and picking up a good living. Tommy Gibbons used him as his heavyweight sparring partner at Shelby and he had the honor of being one of the principals in the only preliminary bout that they were able to afford upon that memorable occasion when Dempsey and Gibbons exchanged wallops.

Gorman will never set the world on fire with his cleverness but he possesses the real fighting spirit and there is sure to be action when he is in the ring.

At Shelby he gave Harry Drake, the English heavy, the mauling of his life. In fact Drake does not appear to have been in the ring since; not in this country anyway.

Fitzsimmons, if he has improved in the way many think he has, does not figure to have too hard a time, at least in outpointing Gorman but the bout is certain to be a slam bang affair and hence pleasing to the spectators.

Gorman is working with Gene Tunney at Saratoga. The experience he had with Gibbons makes him an attractive adjunct to the Tunney menage.

STOP "NERVE" ATTACKS BEFORE HEALTH BREAKS

To many, neuritis is but a series of sharp, agonizing pains. Sometimes these pains are called neuralgia. Often they are known as rheumatism. Vaguely the sufferer knows that such pains are caused by a disordered condition of the nerves. But wise doctors shake their heads gravely over such symptoms. They know that these pains often herald the approach of very serious, and oftentimes fatal, results unless the cause of the trouble is removed and the pains stopped.

So serious is this condition of "nerves" that for years many of the world's leading scientists have devoted their time and thought to perfect a remedy for such cases. Heretofore no sure relief has resulted.

An eminent physician in San Francisco now comes forward with what has been proved a remarkable discovery. Taking as a basis the science of Homeopathy, endorsed by leading physicians and scientists all over the world, this physician has evolved a method of treatment for "nerves" that has met with amazing success in thousands of test cases and in scientific, clinical experiments.

This treatment is now available in the form of Eopa Neuritis Tablets. These tablets not only bring relief in cases of nerve pain, but they tone up the exhausted nerve cells, thereby revitalizing the entire nervous system. They are absolutely harmless and contain no narcotics, bromides or coal tar products. Your druggist will recommend them.

Ahlmann Drug Co., Brand at Harvard, will supply you. Mail orders filled.—Advertisement.

MODERN LUCRETIA BORGIA IS FOUND

Woman Accused Of Killing Two Husbands, Son And Thirty-two Suitors

LONDON, May 19.—The world has produced another Lucretia Borgia, a counterpart if not a more remorseless woman than the Borgia who poisoned her husbands to advance her wealth and social position, in the opinion today of European police who are studying the strange case of Madame Renice at Berkerkul, Serbia.

The woman already has had her preliminary hearings on charges of killing two husbands, a son, aged 10, and thirty-two suitors, all with arsenic. Despatches quote the woman as confessing the crimes and giving as her explanations:

"I put them out of the way because I was jealous that when they had tired of my love they would desert me for another woman."

The woman put the bodies of her victims in zinc cans, hermetically seeald, and kept them in her cellar, the prosecution charged. On each can, the prosecution alleged, was the name and age of each victim and the number of days he was the woman's reputed suitor.

She killed her son, police said she confessed, because he had learned of the cans in the cellar and she was afraid he would tell the neighbors.

President to Visit Chicago As 'Plain' Man

WASHINGTON, May 19—When he goes to Minneapolis in June to attend the Norse-American centennial celebration, President Coolidge will travel as far as Chicago as an ordinary citizen in a regular Pullman sleeper, the White House announced today.

From Chicago to Minneapolis, however, the president may use a private car, it was said.

Last December the president shattered all precedent by traveling to Chicago and back in a Pullman, taking his meals in the regular diner.

The Pullman was decided upon again to cut expenses, it was announced.

Former Glendale Man Promoting Land Deal

Charles M. Young, formerly salesman for Hayward & McCartney, local realtors, now residing at Kansas City, Mo., will leave tonight for Imperial Valley, where he is promoting a deal to sell 25,000 acres of improved land at Brawley to farmers from Morris county, Kansas. Mr. Young arrived in Glendale this morning and states that this is his second trip to the valley since leaving Glendale on March 4. Mr. Young stated that there were fifteen farmers in the party from Council Grove, Webb City and Wilsey, Kansas, who are planning to purchase the land.

Farmers of Kansas have been interested in the land through efforts of Brawley Chamber of Commerce. The land is now rented to Japanese in that section, according to Mr. Young, who also stated that 200 acres of the land was sold on previous trips to the valley. The land is all improved and is planted a alfalfa, barley, lettuce and onions and it is with the idea of having the farmers buy the land and come to Brawley to reside that the Brawley Chamber of Commerce is interesting itself in the project. Mr. Young stated that the cantaloupe season started in Imperial Valley Saturday and that during the next nine weeks approximately 300 carloads a day would be shipped from there.

Witness Is Missing At Shepherd Hearing

soon as court convened, and Earl A. Ruebener, president and manager of a radio concern, took his place as a member of the first prospective panel.

Judge Lynch, in convening court, announced that there would be no morning session tomorrow because of the funeral of Joseph E. Bidwell, jr., president of the Bentley & Murray Printing Co., which Judge Lynch will attend.

The state, distressed at the start of today's proceedings by the disappearance of one of its star witnesses, was further harassed as the day proceeded by the large majority of veniremen who were unacceptable because they had fixed opinions, would not convict on circumstantial evidence, or were opposed to capital punishment.

World War Flyer And Student Die In Crash

MILWAUKEE, May 19.—R. J. Conant, World war aviator, and W. E. Herschleb, student flyer, were killed at West field today when their plane crashed 2000 feet to the ground.

Conant, who, until the war, was district attorney of Marquette county, had been instructing Herschleb. Witnesses of the accident said that Herschleb was piloting the plane, that his hands "froze to the stick" and he probably suffered a nervous paralysis.

REPORTS GIVEN ON STATE MEET

Activities Of Exchange Club Convention Are Told At Meeting Today

Members of the Glendale Exchange club, at the meeting held today noon, heard reports on the state convention in Santa Barbara Friday, Saturday and Sunday. These reports were given by President William Baker, R. E. Johnston and Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, and were similar to the detailed report given exclusively in The Glendale Evening News yesterday. President Baker named Dr. F. W. Loring as chairman of the committee on extension work.

Rev. Dr. David McAstocker, of the Sherman Institute for Indians, at Riverside, spoke on Indian work in Southern California. He decried the attempts of organizations seeking to hinder the benefits of the government among the Indians by spreading false propaganda. E. E. McWain, former adjutant of Glendale post, No. 127, and Rev. C. R. Norton, commander of the local G. A. R. post, spoke on the proposed Memorial hall. President Baker named Earl Welch as chairman of the club's committee on this project.

Dr. Henry R. Harrower spoke on the attitude taken by the national secretary in an address delivered at the state convention, and proposed a reply to the speech. Dr. Harrower also announced that he had secured an autographed photograph from President Calvin Coolidge an Exchangeite, sent to the Glendale club. This picture, Dr. Harrower said, would be hung in the proposed permanent home of the Glendale club.

After a hearing interspersed with heated arguments between mother and daughter and son-in-law, George T. Wells, Glendale, was found guilty by Police Judge F. H. Lowe of battery today. Sentence will be pronounced tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock.

Wells was accused by Mrs. Ina E. Hazlett, his mother-in-law, of using her roughly and of ejecting her forcibly from his home. Mrs. Wells testified against her mother in defense of her husband, declaring that "she didn't want anything to do" with Mrs. Hazlett.

He was released on his own recognizance to appear tomorrow morning. Today he acted as his own attorney, cross questioning both his wife and his mother-in-law. When Mrs. Hazlett attempted to cross question her daughter, however, Judge Lowe was required to stop a number of arguments.

United States Helping Nations On War Debts

reason to believe the French minister of finance asked Mr. Herrick to get detailed instructions for a general discussion of the debt situation.

There has been no meeting of the World war debt funding commission since Congress adjourned. The secretary of state has had for some time general powers of negotiation, and it has been left to his discretion to determine the opportune moment for reviving the subject with each country owing money to America.

In the case of France, the United States held off for a long time because of the cabinet crisis, and even now has made no demand, but has simply indicated a desire to see something done.

Th significant thing is that the administration here has left it be known that all countries which are indebted to America are being asked to keep the subject under constant consideration till a way is found to settle. In other words, France is not alone. The American government, moreover, in pursuing the subject with Italy, Belgium, Jugo Slavia, Czecho-Slovakia and Roumania, is helping along the general cause of European credit, because some of these same countries owe France large sums. If the United States can bring about a general payment all around, then all countries will be in a better position to pay something on their war debts than would be the case if delay and default were permitted.

British Idea

The American policy works in with the British idea, which is to persuade European debtors to make a start, at least, on a funding arrangement. It doesn't take much more than a hint to the press to start a general discussion of war debts, and the American government is hopeful that Europe will begin seriously to tackle the whole inter-allied debt problem.

For awhile the Washington government has never conceded that German reparations had anything to do with the payment of debts owed to America by the allies and that the debts owed by the allies to each other were not a part of the same transaction as between any of the allies and the United States, nevertheless there is growing a recognition here that the problem has some underlying fundamentals which are common to every case, namely, that payment and a recognition of obligations are more vital to the future stability of the world than a drastic reduction or a cancellation of war debts on all sides as has so often been argued.

If America can turn the psychology of Europe from default and cancellation to payment in accordance with capacity, the latest bit of strategic publicity carried on by the Washington government will have accomplished more than a circular note or a formal demand for payment.

The hope now is that the smaller countries will begin to think of paying France, and that France, even in advance of such a step, will send a commission here to discuss a suitable basis for the payment of the three and a half billions she owes the United States.

President Backs Funding Board and State Department

By H. K. REYNOLDS,
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The state department and the debt funding commission are proceeding with the full approval and backing of President Coolidge in their latest effort to come to terms with the foreign nations which owe the United States more than $7,000,000,000, is was declared officially at the White House today.

The president believes, it was stated, that the time is appropriate for such negotiations.

Before the cabinet meeting, President Coolidge discussed the foreign debts with B. F. Yoakum, prominent railroad financier, who submitted a general funding plan, which the president later turned over to the state department for examination.

Yoakum proposed that the United States fund all the outstanding debts on a basis of payments extending over a period of 100 years, with interest at 2½ per cent.

The debt question was discussed by the cabinet today with three members of the debt commission—Kellogg, Mellon and Hoover—present.

It was announced after the cabinet meeting, however, that no definite overtures looking to open negotiations had been received from France, but that the government regarded the situation as satisfactory.

Announcement was made shortly before at the treasury department that officials there had been advised that Baron Cartier De Marchienne, the Belgian ambassador, had been recalled by his government for a conference in Brussels on the $470,000,000 debt of Belgium to the United States. Belgium is one of the five principal debtors of the United States and was among those recently called upon for a settlement. Following a visit to Brussels, De Marchienne is expected to return here with a concrete funding plan for presentation to the American debt commission.

'LONE WOLF' SEES BAY CITY SIGHTS

Motorist Reports Joe Tanko Commandeered Auto For Ride 'Downtown'

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—Joe Tanko, "the "Lone Wolf" or "Flying Dutchman" of the underworld, was reported in San Francisco today.

Police were inclined to think it was Tanko who late last night jumped from a clump of bushes in Golden Gate park, stopped the automobile of Chester O. Buntley, an accountant, commandeered the machine, and ordered Buntley at the point of a gun to drive him at a wild clip through the heart of the city.

Buntley declared to officers he was positive the bandit was Tanko, making the identification by means of photographs shown him by the police.

The desperado deserted Buntley's car at Broadway and Kearney streets, two blocks from the Central police station, and the very center of San Francisco's Bohemia, when the machine was slowed by traffic.

Shotgun squads were immediately dispatched to the neighborhood and search for the notorious San Quentin convict was pressed.

According to Buntley the man made his appearance in Golden Gate park at Lincoln way.

Jumping into the front seat the desperado pressed a gun against Buntley and told him to "drive like h—," officers were told.

All during the ride, Buntley said, his captor appeared calm, but insisted that the machine be driven faster.

Later Buntley was taken to the identification bureau and shown a picture of Tanko and he said: "That's the man."

'Milk Route' Proprietor Is Held as Thief

Alleged by members of the Glendale detective bureau to have operated a virtual milk route here with milk stolen from door steps during the early morning hours, police today arrested Lawrence Bassett, 2767 Riverside drive, Los Angeles, in a charge of theft.

He has been released under $50 bail to appear before Police Judge F. H. Lowe, Monday morning for hearing.

Bassett was arrested at 5 o'clock this morning when he is alleged to have taken a quart of milk left at 111 East Harvard street by a driver of the Barnes Dairy Co. He operated his own truck, it is claimed, and by following the route of other dairies got enough milk to supply his own customers.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, May 19.—Brisk advances in motor, utility and industrial stocks kept the speculative market boiling today.

After an early spurt Mack Trucks and Dupont reacted slightly and then charged upward to higher levels on one of the most enthusiastic buying movements of the year. Dupont reached 162½, up 9 points, while Mack Trucks was up about 10 points. The advance of Nash Motors through 400 was an important incident of the day.

Heavy buying of Electric Power & Light sent that stock up to a new high, at 31, while Utah Securities, which is transferable at four to one into Electric Power, plus $10 cash, reached 132, up 6 points. It is understood that stockholders of Southern Power have approved the merger of that company with Electric Power & Light, and that other important developments are under way.

United States Steel and American Can pushed forward briskly as the leaders in industrial stocks. Demand spread to the independent steel stocks, with Gulf States a leader in this groupp. Wabash common and preferred, Chicago Great Western and other of the rail shares, after a late start, sold at higher prices, the movement being accompanied by rumors of important buying for D. L. & H. and other railroad interests.

American Smelting & Refining was a strong leader in the copper stocks, advancing 2½ points, to 99½.

Both the copper metal market and the low-priced copper stocks displayed a firmer tone today, reflecting the beneficial effects of the recent curtailment in red metal production.

There was no demand for the oil, sugar, equipment, shipping and specialty stocks, the activ representatives of which were unusually active.

Sterling exchange struck a new high today at $4.85¾, or fractionally below par. Call money was in good supply at 3¾ per cent, with the demand comparatively small. Wheat turned reactionary after early strength losses reached as high as 4 cents a bushel. Cotton was steady, with recoveries of 20 points in some of the late months.

Market leaders surged upward in the last hour. Dupont reached 164½, for a total gain of 10 points for the day. American Can sold at its record high. General Electric, at 285, showed a gain of 6 points. United States Steel sold above 118. International Harvester topped 109 and Foundation Co. advanced 3 points to a new high at 116¾. Universal Pipe and Cast Iron Pipe were weak, the latter declining nearly 7 points, to 149.

A spurt in St. Paul stocks and bonds was a feature. The common stock reached 8¼ on extremely heavy selling, while the preferred, at 13¼, showed a gain of 1½ points. The speculative bonds of the company advanced 1½ points.

Utah Securities jumped 13 points, to 139½, for the day. Coca-Cola advanced 2½ points, to a new high at 111½, up 31 points from the low of the cold season. The rise in Wabash common and preferred continued. Seaboard Air Line and Chicago Great Western were also active and strong at the close.

Sales today, 1,732,400 shares; bonds, $16,745,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 19.—Grains closed generally higher after a day of irregular trading today. Wheat finished 2½c off to 2¼c higher; corn closed ⅜@1⅜c up, and oats closed unchanged to ½c higher. May wheat developed distinct weakness, both locally and at Winnipeg, today, and this was reflected in the other deliveries, which were inclined to sag all day. There was fair buying on the dips, which succeeded, however, in sustaining prices in the light trading. Corn was inclined to drag early, but a better eastern demand developed, which helped sustain the market. Oats held steady, with trade moderate. Provisions closed lower.

STAGE COMEDIAN HAS EASIER JOB

Double Program Shown at Cosmo Theatre Today; Semon and Canutt

Charlie Murray, who has one of his most uproariously funny roles in "The Girl in the Limousine," which will be seen on the screen at the Cosmo theatre today, believes that the comedian on the stage has a ten times easier job than his brother, the screen comedian.

"The Girl in the Limousine" stars Larry Semon, the famous stage comedian, whose experience dates back to the days of Keystone cops and custard pies. However, "The Girl in the Limousine" is as different from the old-time comedies as the modern theatre is different from the ancient open air nickelodeons. Claire Adams in the leading feminine role completes the trio of principals in this rapidfire melodramatic farce.

Horsemanship is second nature to Yakima Canutt, gangling youth of the prairies, also on the program at the Cosmo theatre today to thrill local theatre-goers in his latest western production, "The Ridin' Comet," released by F.B.O. Canutt has a record a yard long achieved in many of the big rodeos.

Appealing

"The Price of Pleasure," to end tonight at Glendale theatre, is an unusual picture story.

Fundamentally, stories of human experience which deal with the more common emotions—love, hate, anguish and fear—are about the same; the difference is always in the telling.

And it is in the telling that "The Price of Pleasure," co-starring Virginia Valli and Norman Kerry, which will be shown for the last times tonight at the Glendale theatre, is an unusual picture story, for it is told on the screen in such a successful manner that the incidents assume a new interest.

There is something in "The Price of Pleasure" that most persons have experienced to some degree, and all of the incidents related are perfectly understandable to all. Miss Valli and Kerry have parts that appear particularly well suited to them.

Modern Cinderella

In effect "The Price of Pleasure" has about it some of the attributes of a very modern Cinderella story. Miss Valli has the part of a young salesgirl in the basement of a big department store. Kerry plays the part of a young man of wealth and standing, who is quite dominated by an aristocratic mother. Garbed as a mechanic, he invites the girl to go to a show with him, and she accepts. Then follows a week of magic joy for both. The shopgirl sparkles in cafes and other places of recreation, her beauty enhanced by her borrowed finery. But, like a bubble, every delight bursts when his people return.

There is a delightful vein of comedy running throughout the story, ably handled by Louise Fazenda and T. Roy Barnes.

HOLLYWOOD, May 19.—Nina Romano and Pat O'Malley are two film luminaries added to Universal City's roster recently to be featured in photoplays. Laura La Plante is being starred in "The Beautiful Cheat," with Edward Sloman directing, according to word from the ranch today. Leete Renick Brown and A. P. Younger, two well-known scenarists, also are working for Uncle Carl Laemmle, Younger preparing an original story for Dimitri Buchowetzki's direction.

Clara Horton, who starred in "The Wheel," just completed at United Studios, is convalescing from influenza. Dorothy Farnum, scenario writer, has signed a year's contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, effective at once. She recently returned from abroad with her husband, Maurice Barber, president of the Cinema Finance corporation.

Moreno Writes

Antonio Moreno writes from Spain that he is outfitting a baseball team in his old town, to get the boys there interested in America's national pastime, declaring it far more exciting than the bullfights they hold over there.

"See America First" is a film being made by Universal, which put an auto caravan on the road to get the pictures of all prominent places in the United States. It left Los Angeles last week for San Francisco, and will proceed to New York. Another ad for California.

Indigent ministers of America are to profit from the proceeds of "Thank You," which John Ford, director of "The Iron Horse" and "Lightning," has started to make from the John Golden stage success, at the William Fox studios.

Will Hays, William Fox, John Golden and a committee from a local clergy discussed the matter with Ford a short time ago, and it was decided by all interested that a goodly share of the receipts should be placed in a fund to give aid to deserving ministers.

"Thank You" is based on the life of a small-town clergyman, and shows how poorly rewarded are the spiritual advisers, and how they are often made objects of charity by parishioners, who expect the preachers to accept their livelihood in food and clothing donations, and then say "Thank You."

Millinery Shop To Cut Big Cake On Birthday

All the sentiment of the old nursery rhyme "And when the pie was opened the birds began to sing," will be infused tomorrow at the Nadine Millinery shop, 108 South Brand boulevard, when a five-tier, Lady Baltimore birthday cake will be cut to celebrate the first anniversary of the store, and patrons and friends will receive pieces of the cake, in which cash and merchandise prizes will be hidden.

Mrs. B. Doolittle, manager of the store, had Mrs. Crosson of Mrs. Crosson's Pastry Shop, Brand Central market, bake the cake. Full details of the birthday celebration will be found in the display columns of The Glendale Evening News.

A sale with attractive millinery at unusual prices will be an anniversary feature.

PASTOR EXPLAINS BOOK OF ROMANS

Presbyterian Minister In Continuation of Series Of Sunday Sermons

In continuation of a series of sermons on the Book of Romans, Rev. Edmonds of the Glendale Presbyterian church spoke Sunday morning on "Things the Law Cannot Do," basing his sermon on the verses found in Romans 8:3, and Romans 7-12, for what the law could not do in that it was weak through the flesh, God sending His Own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh and for sin, condemned sin in the flesh. Wherefore the law is holy, and the commandment holy, and just, and good.' He said:

"No study of the Book of Romans is complete apart from a faithful, fearless, facing of God's Holy Law, and its holy, righteous demands. In our reading as touching the law of God, we face the cheap sneers of those who would make void God's law, such as, 'Legal fiction,' 'legal myth,' 'legalism,' 'legalistic conception of the atonement,' etc. To the originators of these, we quote 'Wherefore the law is holy, and the commandment is holy, and just, and good.'

Halt Is Needed

"Men need to call a halt and do some earnest, judgment-facing thinking. Has God a right to have moral laws? If so, where shall these laws originate, by whom be declared, and by what authority? Shall men, claiming to be leaders of thought say that God should have laws, but without penalties? Or would they present God as so foolish that He will wink at crime, having laws with just penalties, but never enforcing those penalties? * * * A law is not a law without a penalty and a law with a penalty never executed, is a dead letter.

"Concerning the problem of God's law—there are two possible solutions and only two. One says, "keep the law and live by it," and the other says, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." There is no other alternative. A man is either in bondage under the law, or he is under grace in the glorious liberty of the sons of God.

Paul's Argument

"Paul's great argument is to present the futility of hoping for salvation under the law. Paul is entitled to speak on this subject. He earned his title of Doctor of Laws in the University of Jerusalem as a pupil of the great Gamaliel whose title was "flower of the law.' Paul was a Pharisee of the strictest sect; his business as a Rabbi was to expound the law; he had measured his prayers and counted them; paid tithes scrupulously; fasted oft, had done penance and practiced good works faithfully.

"But, one day, on the high road to Damascus * * * he was stricken down by a blazing light; he heard a voice of singular sweetness and power saying, "I am Jesus"; and from that moment, he was no more a legalist, but a believer in grace. He trusted in Christ for salvation and "grace" became his sign-manual.

"'The law is good,' he says, but there are certain things the law cannot do * * * Water is good, but it cannot satisfy hunger. A millstone is a good thing, but it is not a good thing to tie around a man's neck when he is learning to swim.

Mind of God

"Certain things the law does. It expresses the mind of God. * * * Nowhere do we get so clear a delineation of the character and nature of God as at Sinai * * * here we see in Him justice, righteousness and truth, and perfect and outstanding holiness. Law also declares the whole duty of man. God created man in His Own image and said 'Be ye holy for I am holy.'

"Law draws up an indictment against all who violate it * * * 'for by the law is the knowledge of sin.' Law pronounces sentence upon us. 'The soul that sinneth, it shall die.' Sin and penalty are yoked together as cause and effect.

"But the law cannot compel obedience. * * * The law says, 'Thou shalt' and man can answer 'I will not.' * * * A blind man cries out at a street corner, 'help me across.' A policeman may lead him over—the sun may be blazing brightly, but through the weakness of the flesh, the man cannot see his way. So with the law—it is mighty, but helpless in case of a sin blinded and wilful man.

Law Moves Straight

"The law cannot absolve from sin. The law turns neither to the right hand nor to the left—it moves straight ahead and demands a full penalty. Even Robert Ingersoll believed in law. He said, 'I do not believe in forgiveness.' * * * If there is another world, we've got to settle. * * * Justice is what I believe in.' And if there is no grace, Ingersoll is right.

"The law cannot save. We are all shut up to sin, all in prison waiting the execution of our sentence. * * * The law can do many things * * * but it cannot open doors, cannot give life or freedom; * * * 'then what must I do to be saved?'

"But 'the law is a schoolmaster to bring us to Christ. The law cannot save but it points us to Him who saves all who come unto God by Him.' Take your choice, condemnation under law, or life under grace. * * * Grace is gratuity. 'Thanks be unto God for His Unspeakable Gift.' * * * Look and live for He is able to 'save unto the uttermost.' "

KISSING SUSPECT FAILS BONDSMAN

Bench Warrant Is Issued For Arrest Of Local Man Charged By Girl

Ronald C. Owens, 315 North Jackson street, charged with disturbing the peace after he is alleged to have kissed his sister-in-law, forfeited $100 bail when he failed to appear before Police Judge F. H. Lowe for hearing this morning. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest. Bail had been provided for Owens by J. C. McReynolds of Glendale.

George Riddlemoser, 328 Riverdale drive, who signed the complaint against Owens, was present in court with his daughter, Virginia, 18, against whom the offense is alleged to have been committed. She will be the principal witness for the state.

Warrant of Arrest

The warrant of arrest charges that Owens "maliciously, wrongfully and unlawfully disturbed the peace and quiet of one Virginia Riddlemoser by offensive and tumultuous conduct and by forcibly kissing said Virginia Riddlemoser."

According to a statement to the court this morning, Riddlemoser said that Mrs. Ronald Owens, his other daughter, was in the hospital when Owens tried to kiss Virginia. Mrs. Owens since has returned to her home with her three-weeks old babe.

Mrs. Hoover Opens Atwater Beauty Shop

Another step in the development of business activity in the Atwater district is the opening of the Buckeye Beauty shop in Apartment 1, 3538 Garden street, corner of Glendale boulevard, by Mrs. Olive Hoover, formerly of Glendale.

"I am very happy over my new location," says Mrs. Hoover. "I love Glendale, but I moved to Atwater because I was interested in developing my business with the growth of the community."

Mrs. Hoover formerly conducted the Buckeye Beauty shop and school on East Broadway. She is founding her new shop along the same lines as her former business. Expert operators are in readiness to serve patrons in all lines of beauty culture. Artistically furnished in gray and rose, and conveniently equipped, the Atwater shop is already attracting a gratifying patronage.

Corrections Made In Graduation Program

Editor The Evening News—Through an inadvertence in preparing copy the commencement program of the Glendale Union academy was announced in your issue of yesterday to take place in the academy chapel. It should have read "in the chapel of the Glendale Union High school, corner of Broadway and Verdugo road." I notice also that someone is responsible for an announcement that the Adventists of Southern California will assemble for a picnic on June 24 in Rossmoyne park. This is a mistake, as only those in Glendale are expected to take part in this social gathering.

Respectfully,
R. W. PARMELE.
